

Sorry fellows....what are you attempting to do? This idea of broad-band power line distribution has got to be the most hair brained idea ever considered by the Commission. As a licensed "ham" and a broadcast/television engineer, since 1960, I can see nothing to be gained by this except to cause interference to all radio services extending up into the FM broadcast band. How about spending more time on approving LPFMs and stop wasting our tax dollars on assinine schemes to screw up the entire spectrum. Most respectfully submitted, J. Steve Brodie
